

Day 5:

On the 5th day of the Erasmus-project we visited some springs that provide a natural mineral water that is said to have healing abilities. The water tasted very special and not everyone liked it. Our next stop was at a small polish town where we had the possibility to taste 6 more mineral waters, that where just from natural sources.

We had a simple but tasty lunch in a nearby restaurant. After we got a little guide through the city all students and teachers met at a big spa-complex, to take a lift to a viewing platform above the city. There we took some pictures with luminated sculptures and soon a big snowball fight between everyone broke out. This part wasn't planned but it was very fun. We were also able to lend some sledges to ride a little hill with the students from the other countries. Especially the Greeks were really excited since they didn't know snow from home. We continued to throw snow at each other and used our sledges to the fullest till it was dark and all of us were completely drenched, but also really enthusiastic and full of laughter. Then we took a bus straight to the next Mc Donald's. Here we ordered our dinner and talked about the day.

Back at the hotel in Golkowice the first thing we noticed was that the power was off. Neither light nor WIFI were working. After some time of confusion the power ran again and there were no more problems. The students then all met up to spend the evening together since some countries are already leaving on Friday.
